Foreword

The actions and discussions of the 2001 Legislature focused in general on persistent legislative topics such as tax reform, state budgeting, and education funding. In the more specific category of natural resource policy, energy issues and the Montana Environmental Policy Act generated the most legislative and public debate. In the last weeks of the session, free conference committees crafted the final versions of a number of controversial bills on these topics: Senate Bill No. 19, Senate Bill No. 398, Senate Bill No. 506, House Bill No. 474, and House Bill No. 600, all energy bills; and House Bill Nos. 459 and 473, revising MEPA.

The Legislature introduced over 1,200 bills -- a number fairly consistent with previous sessions. Just over half were passed and signed by the Governor. A high number of freshman legislators and almost 30 legislators serving their final session because of term limits made the 2001 legislative session unique.

Some of the 57th Legislature's successful natural resource bills are summarized and listed by category below. The bills are described more fully within the publication.

Agriculture

HB 246 clarifies that a property owner is not responsible for damages caused by livestock unless the owner was grossly negligent or engaged in intentional misconduct.

HB 418 requires, among other things, that the owners or possessors of 55% of the land petitioning to join a herd district sign the petition.

SB 91 allows the financing of water-related projects on hog farms that improve water quality to be financed through the Renewable Resource Grant and Loan Program.

SB 197 requires a permit, with exceptions, for collecting wild plant resources.

SB 261 authorizes industrial hemp production as an agricultural crop.

SB 326 revises a number of laws governing weeds.

Energy

HB 474 provides incentives through low-interest loans for new electrical generating facilities and the purchase of energy from existing qualifying facilities. Creates the Montana Power Authority to purchase, construct, and operate generating and transmission facilities in Montana. Requires the default supplier to meet the electricity needs of its customers. Maintains that the default supplier recovers all statutorily defined electricity supply costs subject to a prudence test by the Public Service Commission.

SB 19 extends the dates requiring residential and small commercial customer participation in the selection of an electricity supplier.

SB 319 eliminates new generating facilities from review under the Montana Major Facility Siting Act.

SB 398 allows temporary power generation units to operate, with certain conditions, without an air quality permit.

SB 506 uses tax and bond incentives to encourage alternative energy and electrical generation.

Fisheries, Wildlife and Recreation

HB 292 creates the Fishing Access Enhancement Program to provide incentives to landowners who provide access to or across state land for public fishing.

HB 455 extends to 30 years the period for an instream flow lease.

HB 492 clarifies the authority of the Department of Fish, Wildlife and Parks to manage the prairie dog as a species in need of management.

SB 437 provides for the issuance of supplemental game damage licenses.

Land Use Management

SB 167 revises the sanitation in subdivision laws.

SB 479 authorizes local governments to adopt subdivision regulations that promote cluster development and requires the Department of Commerce to provide technical assistance with the development of cluster regulations.

MEPA

HB 473 states that actions taken under MEPA may not be conditioned beyond statutory requirements.

SB 377 provides time limits for conducting environmental reviews and restricts the cumulative impacts a state agency may analyze for a permit.

Mineral Development

HB 69 revises the definitions, applicable fees, mine performance bonding and appeal procedures of the metal mine reclamation laws.

HB 573 allows the Board of Oil and Gas to permit certain coal bed methane gas wells.

Water

HB 626 ratifies the State of Montana and Fort Belknap water compact.

SB 147 revises public sewer and wastewater supply system laws.

The Environmental Quality Council (EQC) prepares the Final Status of Natural Resource Legislation to provide a brief summary of natural resource legislation for legislators, lobbyists and the public. The bills in the status are organized by subject, number, and status (passed or failed), with House bills listed before Senate bills. Each bill entry includes the bill number, short title, committee hearings, and relevant votes. Several bills are included under more than one subject heading.

For further information on these bills or others, consult the Legislative Council's publication Final History and Status, which contains all legislative action taken on all bills.

The Montana Environmental Policy Act, enacted in 1971, charges the EQC with researching and reviewing state regulations and policies affecting Montana's environment and recommending measures to promote the general welfare of present and future generations of Montana. For more information on EQC publications and activities, contact the Environmental Quality Council, Legislative Environmental Policy Office, P.O. Box 201704, Helena, MT 59620, (406) 444-3742, <http://leg.state.mt.us/services/lepo>.
